new principal leads administration

mr. jimmy f. sublett has only just begun as phs's principal. facing many new problems, mr. sublett proved to be a just and hard working man, dedicated to phs. he shared with the students both pleasures and problems of everyday life at phs. mr. sublett always lent an attentive ear to the many questions of students and teachers alike.

mr. richard w. pegram and mr. frank e. teass, phs's assistant principals, helped create an atmosphere of friendship and sportsmanship. mr. pegram just began his life at phs this year. yet, in this short time, he has shown his true desire to work out the many problems at phs. mr. teass, well acquainted with phs, sought to keep the student body orderly and peaceful.

phs had very efficient secretaries who were of great assistance to the principal this year. keeping the office in smooth running order was no small task. however, these secretaries handled all situations with great ease and proved to be a great aid to the administration of phs.

the three principals begin a day by sharing responsibilities and making decisions.

Counselors help plan future administering psat's and national merit scholarship tests to juniors occupied much time for the counselors. seniors were given tests sponsored by the armed forces to determine their aptitudes. scat and step tests were also given. the counselors also aided individual students with personal problems such as college choices and part time employment.

special education at phs, under the direction of mrs. katherine prince, has helped each individual to develop his capabilities. these students contributed to our school and community in various ways such as aiding needy families at christmastime. this year, special education proved to be a very vital part of the phs curriculum.

english is more than a language the english department at phs this year worked with great enthusiasm. headed by miss elizabeth lanier, the english teachers helped students develop reading skills and writing techniques. in each english class, in addition to teaching literary works, certain points about authors were emphasized. students also learned to recognize many literary devices such as alliteration, assonance and personification.

with the aid of audio visuals and classroom activities, students became actively involved in english in 1971-72. drama, journalism and speech clubs helped to develop students' english skills to a great degree. phs students, with a solid background in english, were able to utilize their knowledge in many aspects of school life.

math is vital to ever changing world math proved to be a very vital part of phs's curriculum this year. under the direction of mr. burton alexander, the math department strove to help students understand the importance of this subject. ever changing and growing, math helps increase a student's comprehension of the world today. today, more than ever, young people must keep informed. this year at phs, math was used to teach students about the world, such as its shape and dimensions. math indeed was a very necessary part of a student's education this year.

crystal show links math with science on november 23 and 24, the advanced math and advanced science classes met in the chemistry laboratory. the purpose of this meeting was to expose a definite link between math and science to phs students.

several talks were given by students. bill laderach, with the help of mr. burton alexander, gave accounts of the field trip taken by some of the math students. olympia perkins demonstrated the mathematical implications of the crystal. pam cartwright displayed her talent by introducing the use of crystals in art, and linda laderach discussed the bonding of crystals and their aspects in math and science. mr. r.m. treeland, a local geologist brought in some beautiful crystals, and explained where each specimen was found.

science is useful in everyday life science, the study of living and non-living things, was found to be very interesting this year. with the ever growing emphasis on ecology, science must be used to equip students with knowledge of the earth. just as math told students of the dimensions and shape of the earth, so did science tell of the makeup of the earth. science told students of the general makeup of the air and ground along with the factory discharges that cause pollution. in the 1971-72 year, science showed its relevance in the world today to many phs students.

even though the earth is infinitely old, each day brings new events to our world. these events affect everyone today, just as occurrences of the past had a great impact upon the people of those times. regardless of the past, we start each day as if we've only just begun.

this year the history department at phs sought to reflect upon the past, stay informed about the present and possibly predict the future. the teachers made history and government come alive for the students, while also showing the relevance of present events. each event, both past and present did indeed prove to be of consequence to each student.

the arts generate interest within phs

"bonjour" and "buenos dias" were probably two of the most widely used words this year at phs. speaking foreign languages was fun and different for phs students.

different languages were proven to be relevant to today's world. teachers pointed out the usefulness of languages in communicating and understanding people. with the aid of patient teachers, many students were able to grasp the proper meaning, correct spelling and careful pronunciation of the different languages taught at phs this year.

music, another type of art, provided students with the opportunity of increasing their knowledge in the background and composers of great musical works. in addition, chord music and instrumental music were taught, which gave students actual practice and experience in this field. indeed, the many types of art proved to be enjoyable and useful this year at phs.

business molds future executives the business department had a very progressive year. the 1971-72 school year brought many students to the business program. stenography, typing, and filing were interests for some students. shorthand and other courses such as clerk-typist occupied many students' time. this department helped prepare students to face the world outside the protective walls of phs. these students will have to face the business world soon and, with the training they received this year, they will be prepared.

gym promotes good sportsmanship learning to play fairly and learning the meaning of sportsmanship composed the main goals of the phs physical education department this year. students were taught the skills and techniques used in various sports. along with this, they were taught sportsmanship and the right attitude to take when participating in sports. 1971 brought victory for some and defeat for others, but, regardless, phs students showed good sportsmanship. this proved to be a great asset to every person at petersburg high school.

vocational students develop skills although the vocational department was not in the main building, it was still a vital part of phs this year. this department prepared students for the business world which they will face after graduation. practical skill in fields such as auto mechanics, air conditioning and television repairing were taught to many of the students. health occupations, plumbing, heating, data processing and electronics were also offered to students this year. under the direction of mr. i.b. pittman, the department attempted to expand the vocational course while trying to meet the needs of local industry.

the maintenance department also was very vital to phs life in 1971. little things, such as putting in a new light bulb, and big things, such as painting the first floor hall showed the true necessity of the maintenance crew this year.

sca works for ecology

the student cooperative association was reorganized this year at phs. taking the place of the interim council, this organization had two main parts. the first part was the senate which was formed by the election of three students from each grad level. the house of representatives, the second part, consisted of one representative from each homeroom.

under the leadership of david minton, arthur edmonds, and faye wilson, the sca sought to govern the student body and to solve problems in a way that was fair to all.

sca projects this year varied from selling trash bags and candy to placing a juke box in the cafeteria. as a new idea was brought up, during the school year the members of the sca worked diligently to mold and shape these suggestions into something that would benefit the entire student body.

the main drive of the sca this year was the glass recycling project. the community was asked to contribute glass objects which were to be crushed by phs students. this project proved to be very beneficial to the petersburg area.

helping people was the main goal of the special services club in 1971. the christmas basket project was the main activity of the club this year. they requested the help of the entire school in this undertaking. money clothes, food and toys were donated to help needy families in the petersburg area.

the special services club was composed of students in the special education classes. even though this club had only been organized for a short time, these students and mrs. katherine prince, their advisor, sought to work with other clubs, giving them much needed manpower and support.

the national honor society was an organization for the recognition of outstanding students. scholarship, leadership, service and character formed the basis for selecting these students this year. also, the students were recommended by a faculty committee headed by mrs. j. fredrick and mrs. t. caldwell, the society's sponsors.

this year, the national honor society was extremely large in number with 37 students in the organization. these students fulfilled the prerequisites for membership which included a 91.5 or above overall average. these students were faced with the problem of reducing the size of the group, and, in addition, they chose a new standard for next year's members. the national honor society proved to be an excellent way to recognize phs's outstanding students.

nhs members robert martz and jill sheintoch also get recognition in the quill and scroll.

french club offers study of customs under the excellent guidance of madame brower, the french club was able to plan an activity for every month. starting with the autumn months, the french club exhibited slides of europe, dwelling mainly upon france.

one of phs's cafeteria workers, madame siedow, was asked to speak at a french club meeting. a native of france, she told about french customs and traditions.

a christmas party or "une fête de Noël" was also held this year in addition to a demonstration of french gourmet cooking. the well organized and well executed plans of the french club proved to be interesting as well as educational for all those involved.

traditions examined by spanish club

"feliz navidad, feliz navidad, feliz navidad prospero ano y felicidad." merry christmas from the bottom of my heart. during the christmas season, echoes of a popular spanish holiday song could be heard throughout phs.

the singing of christmas carols was not the only activity of spanish club this year. with advisors, mrs. b. vinson and p. wells, the students learned about spanish etiquette and customs. the club also enhanced its year by interesting programs pertaining to the traditions of the spanish-speaking people.

art club benefits phs

one of phs's most active service clubs this year was the art club. under the skilled supervision of mrs. i. musgrove and mr. k. graves, the art club was always undertaking jobs which benefited the school.

the art club inspired phs students to take an interest in school activities by making posters for the football games and also for the missile drive. they also sold number one buttons for the great wave team. providing the scenery for the plays and decorating school bulletin boards also headed the list of art club activities.

the 1971 art club had a full, school year, helping others and enjoying themselves at the same time. they added to the christmas spirit of phs by providing decorations for the halls, gifts for the teachers, and conducting a door decorating contest among homerooms.

fha prepares for tomorrow

future homemakers of america were those students who took home economics or food service classes. advisors, mrs. l. franklin and mrs. t. gilliat, aided the fha in planning new and different things this past year.

in june 1971, lolita cox, treasurer, attended a state meeting in roanoke. this year, for the first time, the fha chose a queen. janet harris won this title. the fha sold candy, stationary and candles to raise money. these girls also participated in the christmas parade.

patricia crawley, president, helped the fha plan something for each month. banquets, dances and fashion shows headed the list of monthly events. one of the most important events of the year was fha week, held in march. a tea for fha members and the faculty was held during this week. the monthly plans were well executed which made the fha very successful this year.

fbla sponsors many projects

a relatively young club, the phs future business leaders of america was in its third year. phs's chapter of the fbلا was one of the 1800 located all over the nation.

the fbلا, sponsored by mrs. h. blake, started their year with a formal installation service. other activities of the club included attending a regional workshop at virginia commonwealth university and a leadership training conference in harrisonburg, virginia.

money-making projects included selling spirit corsages, operating the book store, having a bake sale and sponsoring a basketball game. this year, the fbلا sponsored the "business student of the month". they also collected food for thanksgiving baskets.

deca gives business experience the distributive education club of america offered leadership and opportunities for practical working experience for its members.

leadership opportunities in deca ranged from being a delegate to one of many conventions to part time employment. school activities included selling trash bags and candy, having a breakfast meeting and adopting a boy from the petersburg training center.

deca, formed to attract youth to the fields of marketing and distribution, had a large, hard working club this year.

vica stands for industrial education petersburg high school's chapter of vocational industrial clubs of america sought, this year, to meet the demands of today's complex technological society. under the direction of mr. r. whitaker, vica provided an opportunity for students to obtain training in specific areas.

the many activities of the 1971-72 vica club included a joint basketball with deca to help raise funds for a christmas project, a breakfast meeting at the holiday inn, and the selling of trash bags as a means of raising money. a school service club as well as a national organization, the vica club of phs made great strides in the fields of industry this year.

cheerleaders promote school spirit and good sportsmanship cheering a winning football team was a great experience for phs's 18 cheerleaders this year. led by co-heads carol moore and margaret spivey and advisor miss g. sears, students opened the 1971-72 football season with a pep rally where the football team and coaches were introduced.

supported by the band and majorettes, the phs cheerleaders led the wave team to outstanding victories, including the central district title. These sixteen girls and two boys roused phs spirit and pep, while also trying to promote good sportsmanship at all athletic events.

kim miles exemplified phs's spirit at one of the many football pep rallies.

chosen in the late fall, the junior varsity cheerleaders participated mainly during basketball and wrestling seasons. however, these sophomore girls added pep and vitality to phs's school spirit.

certain phases of cheering were used to choose junior varsity cheerleaders. these points included poise, personality and jumping. also, the ability to execute a cheer and the over-all appearance of a girl were used as a basis for judging. the junior varsity cheerleaders chosen met these requirements to the fullest as they were really great!

phs forms new chorale taking the place of the glee club, the newly formed chorale had not only singers but also instrumentalists, which needed used for accompaniment.

mr. r. stronach conducted the group which performed the phs thanksgiving and christmas programs. the chorale also had a citywide project. this group sang for the local television station, wxex. the performance was for christmas and was viewed by the television audience on christmas eve. phs's chorale was certainly a dedicated group of musicians, interested in performing many different kinds of music.

majorettes add variety to band keeping school spirit alive and participating in many activities were the phs majorettes. these girls add spice and color to the phs band in their many performances. formerly an all girl squad, this year two male twirlers were added. all of these majorettes spent endless hours practicing so that their performances might be flawless. even during the summertime, these students gave many hours in order to practice routines together.

outside of phs, the majorettes accompanied the band in many performances. these majorettes marched in the petersburg christmas parade, the veterans' day parade, virginia state homecoming, and others. phs was well represented in the petersburg area by the cheerful and colorful routines of these majorettes.

band involves many phs students participating in every aspect of school life, the band this year sought to rouse phs spirit. mr. r. stronach, the director, conducted the band.

the petersburg, colonial heights and virginia state college parades headed the band's performances. it also played for phs football games, pep rallies and senior basketball games. phs's bandsmen played in the thanksgiving, christmas and spring concerts. many of the students in the band participated in a local television show during christmas. the band was present too at graduation, which concluded its outstanding year at phs.

crimson wave has undefeated season the 1971 petersburg high school football team finished an outstanding season with a 10-1 record, losing only to douglas freeman in the regional game. the wave ranked number one in the state for six consecutive weeks, but finished fifth the the state overall.

herbert ford led the dynamite wave attack by completing 72 of 166 passes for 1225 yards and 17 touchdowns. leading rushers included jerome smith, leonard davis, and ronald walker. the wave offense averaged 289 yards per game while the defense allowed only an average of 9.5 points a game.

the superiority of the wave team was evident, and two games especially exhibited the team's greatness. manchester traveled to cameron field for a game of the unbeatens. after trailing at halftime, the wave went ahead early in the fourth quarter only to fall behind with less than four minutes left in the game. phs rallied to score in the remaining minutes to pull ahead and win the game.

the very next week, the wave met e. c. glass, a non-district, unbeaten team. on the second play of the game, bernard wilson recovered a fumble in the end zone to score. after herbert ford threw a 59 yard touchdown pass to lawrence archer, cornell barlow demonstrated his kicking ability by booting a 41 yard field goal. e. c. glass closed the score to 15-13, but the mighty wave scored once more on a short run by jerome smith to sew up the victory.

much credit should be given to first-year coach norman jenkins who was selected central district coach of the year. also elected to the all-regional first team were curtis smith, cornell barlow, and silas leonard.

for a team, under a new coach, to achieve such great honors in the district, region, and state was certainly worth the respect of each student at phs.

phs places second in central district the 1971-72 crimson wave basketball team finished on outstanding season with a record of seventeen wins and three losses. this was due largely to the superior height the team possessed. the front court consisted of michael howard 6'5", morris fultz 6'6", and moses malone 6'9".

the wave team overpowered each opponent game after game though many teams tried unsuccessfully to institute the slowdown technique on the phs team. due to excellent shooting by the starting five, the opponents went away defeated. moses malone led the team in rebounds and also had a 21.6 average for the season. bernard bugg and ronald walker proved to be great ball handlers in the back court.

avenging their two earlier losses to hopewell and colonial heights, the phs team bounced back and won 15 games in a row to place second in the central district. skill, leadership and hustle certainly proved to be the right combination as the wave teams go on.

under the leadership of coach hayes, the j.v. team compiled a winning season with a 16-2 record. oswald beloate led the team with a 12.4 average.

phs wrestlers carry on winning touch winning was the only word in phs's vocabulary, as the 1971-1972 edition of the wrestling team chalked up victory after victory. ending the season with an 11-1-1 record, the wave matsmen captured the central district title along with the regional title.

leading the team for the second consecutive year, silas leonard and michael moore ended with identical 19-1-0 records, tommie parker, along with leonard and moore captured the regional titles in their respective weight classes.

breaking records was easy for the wave team. alphonso burrow broke his own pin record succeeding in just sixteen seconds in the regional tournament. michael moore pinned all of his opponents in the first period except for his one loss. perhaps the biggest achievement of all was the second place earned in the state meet by silas leonard.

all-regional champion silas leonard proves to be very skillful on the mat.

ikego bullock executes a beautiful cradle which is impossible for his opponent to break.

alfred goode counters a power switch which is very effective against his thomas dale opponent.

llewellyn joe works for a power switch which proves successful in one of his decisive matches.

adrian dance overpowers his opponent and succeeds in obtaining a winning position in his match.

veteran matmen display winning form preston boone shows that it is very difficult to score on the first take-down.

batters display individual talent although they displayed great individual talent, the 1971 baseball team failed to secure a winning season. the team record was certainly no indication of the actual skill shown by the many returning lettermen and also the newcomers to the team.

speed was certainly a factor during the season as the wave constantly kept their opponent on the lookout for stolen bases, which totaled as many as fifteen for some players. even though the wave team lost twelve games, the players never lost hope and never accepted defeat without at least trying.

bye bye birdie captivates audience brought to life by the student cast, the annual spring musical, bye bye birdie! was presented in may of 1971. the story of a teen idol leaving his career to enter military service, captivated the audience's attention from the time the curtain rose until the final scene.

not only were the dramatics exceptional, but the choreography, music, and scenery were also outstanding. the simplicity of action and the freshness of approach brought thunderous applause and standing ovations at the close of the curtain calls at each performance.

p hs students visit historic europe france! germany! italy! eighteen p hs art students visited three foreign countries this summer. art classes and visits to many historical and cultural landmarks, contributed to each student's personal knowledge of europe. touring the cities and meeting the people of europe were certainly great learning experiences.

with mrs. lou musgrove as their advisor, these students participated in art classes, centered mainly around florence, italy. the "old world" culture of europe gave these eighteen students a storehouse of knowledge and a treasury of lasting memories that will always be remembered.

phs's girls' state representatives connie jefferson, theolette ledbetter, and germaine fauntleroy reflect on their week at radford college.

seniors gain governmental insight last june at girls' and boys' state, phs was represented by eight young people. ronald powell, mark powers, david minton, james jackson, and harrison bonner attended boys' state which was held at the college of william and mary in williamsburg, virginia. traveling to radford college, theolette ledbetter, germaine fauntleroy, and constance jefferson attended girls' state as representatives from phs.

the purpose of both groups was a better understanding of the functioning of a state government. democratic elections of candidates were held and proper governmental procedures were carried out by the students. workshops were set up so that each person could play an active part. learning the importance of good government proved to be very educational for these eight students.

david minton, mark powers, james jackson, harrison bonner, and ronald powell show their excitement at being selected for boys' state.

pep rallies typifies phs spirit

"we're gonna take ya higher!" the shouts and cheers at pep rallies for the phs football team rose to great heights this year. with a ten and zero record and the central district title, the 1971 football team created tremendous school spirit and overwhelming pride in phs.

phs pep rallies, held on friday afternoons, generated a feeling of excitement that led the wave team to many victories. led by the pep band, cheerleaders, and majorettes, the men in crimson and gold succeeded in leading the virginia high school league poll for four consecutive weeks.

co-heads carol moore and margaret spivey give coach jenkins last minute instructions for the pep rally.

student band director bobby graboyes prompts gilbert jones on the next selections for the pep rally.

majorette marie reese dances to the stimulating music of the pep band.

mike zapulla, timmy antozzi, jill sheintoch, and donna wells let everyone know that phs is number one.

switching places with the cheerleaders, phs's majorettes show varied expressions.

mark powers, lolita cox, ronald powell, and robert martz are recognized as outstanding students by the national merit scholarship foundation.

phs seniors gain recognition

many phs seniors were recognized this year for their fine contributions in the field of academic achievement. the awards received for these outstanding contributions were based on the qualities of scholarship, leadership, and citizenship.

in observance of youth appreciation in november, the petersburg optimist club honored students from five area high schools. phs was privileged to have six award winners. trophies were presented in the fields of music, art, academic achievement, athletics, and citizenship.

the national merit scholarship yielded commendations for many phs seniors. mark powers and robert martz were named finalists in this test. also, lolita cox and ronald powell received recognition for placing as semifinalists in the national achievement scholarship program for negro students.

robert graboyes, pam laity, william davis, linda laderach, david minton, and william leonard are phs's optimist award winners.

queens crowned at phs dances

as an attempt to recognize beauty and as a part of the festive celebrations, the students select queens for their three annual dances.

miss donna hare represented the senior class when she reigned as queen of the senior prom.

the junior class held its ring dance in march where the juniors received their 1972 class rings. miss karen kelly triumphed over a field of eight girls to become queen of the ring dance.

another feature of the 1972 year was the election of miss christmas seal. the sca conducted the voting for this school queen working with the southside tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. miss carleasa weaver was chosen to this position.

carleasa weaver is phs's miss christmas seal.

1971 ring queen karen kelly looks excited as she awaits her coronation.

night of january 16th involves audience not keeping with the traditional musical play presented in the spring, the students of phs put on a captivating drama, the night of january 16, in december of 1971. the cast, headed by advisors, mr. k. graves and mr. r. zaruba, did an excellent job in carrying out the play. the play about the court trial of karen andré allowed the audience to get involved by the random choosing of twelve members to serve as the jury.

the play, written by ayn rand, was exceptional in that there was no written ending to the play. rather, the jury made the final decision as to how the play would close. it was extremely interesting to note that of the three performances, the juries delivered two not guilty verdicts and one verdict of guilty. this play was a pleasant addition to the extracurricular activities of phs.

1972 is unforgettable year an exciting year. a memorable year. that was how phs school months were in 1971 and '72. it was a year of sports, such as a champion football team and a superb basketball team. this year held many memories for seniors and underclassmen alike. for underclassmen came events including the fall festival dance, and the ring dance. as for seniors soon leaving the realm of phs, activities included the senior prom, senior week, and the long awaited graduation. for all students, though, the years held many memories not to be forgotten.

mr. morgan explains to sophomores the important role they play in the student life at phs.

the class of 1974 had an exciting, fun filled year. once school got underway, the sophomores got together and began planning for their first year of high school life. fund raising projects and a dance were cited as the most important events of the year for sophomores. november was "smile month" and all of the class of '74 sold smile buttons. the purpose was to earn money for the sophomore sponsored "fall festival" dance. the theme for the dance was "smiling faces." with mr. morgan as their sponsor, the sophomores proved themselves truly responsible and capable of carrying on different projects at phs.

the juniors of phs had a full, but happy year. this year the class of 1973 faced exciting events such as the ordering and receiving of class rings, the ring dance and class day. other not-so-exciting happenings included taking national merit scholarship qualifying tests, college boards, and scat and step tests. juniors also participated in college night held in october. this night aided college bound students in choosing the proper college. with over four hundred students in the class, the juniors never worried about lack of participation in their many activities at phs this year. they became actively involved with school projects such as the school wide selling of trashbags and candy. many juniors willingly lent a helping hand so that phs might claim 1971 as one of the most successful years yet.

determined officers guide senior class senior week, the senior newspaper and the senior prom headed the list of activities sponsored by the class of 72. well organized meetings of the class brought about these activities and others such as the senior basketball game.

in addition to the usual classroom activities, special tests were administered to seniors. achievement tests were taken along with civil service tests. both tests were used to determine a student's areas of proficiency in different fields of learning.

heading the class of 1972 were james jackson as president, sandra powell as vice president and nancy howard as secretary. senior decorations, ways and means, publicity, social, projects, and service committees were set up by these executives to carry out senior activities.

leading the senior class are vice president sandra powell, president james jackson, and secretary nancy howard.

Mrs. Jane Clark and Barbara Wilkinson discuss the newest and easiest ways to cook glamorous meals, on a modern gas range.

Commonwealth Gas Distribution Corporation thinks of all graduates as potential customers. In the above picture, Barbara Wilkinson is examining a gas range in the Gas Company office. The Gas Company also believes that, as graduates, you can do a great service for the rest of us if you never cease to be students — looking for opportunities are ways to cherish the American system of free enterprise and to improve the American way of life. You can be thankful for free school in a country where you are free to worship and work and think and talk as you please. In our America you are free to choose the type appliances and the fuel you will wish to use in your homes. This is a part of your heritage from the people who built America.

The Future is pretty largely in your hands. For some of you, it means marriage, homes, family, and work. For others of you it means just the beginning of study and hard work in college. Always, all of you must be vigilant and active to combat the evils of socialism, government domination of private industry, and all the "isms" that destroy democracy. We depend upon you to do a good job.

well here it is . . . the 1972 missile. reflecting back, i realize that my job was unnecessary. with such a great staff, an editor is merely a figurehead. therefore, i feel the credits should go to the great kids on the staff.

robert martz and wayne cook were indispensable as the missile photographers. their hard work and effort in developing and printing all of the pictures was greatly appreciated. thanks go to section heads vera edmondson, vera davis and james jackson who worked on sports and classes. also, credit must be given to tina urquhart, diane james, rose jones, susan lawrence, and marian pegram for all their time and work on their sections. special thanks go to barbara wilkinson who did a great job on the ads. helping barbara get ads and patrons were joey kozak, vickie tank, clarence johnson and vivian scott. they also did many odd jobs important to a yearbook. credit must be given to paul kaplin for getting many ads and for taking care of the missile subscriptions. thanks also to lolita cox the only typist, who willingly stayed up all night and typed for the first deadline. all of the staff deserves a hand of applause for their hard work. there remain only four persons to whom i owe my thanks. without these four, this book would be non-existent today. first, my thanks go to mr. sublett who devoted his time to helping the missile out of its financial depression. then, two people who really get the credit, mainly for just putting up with me and my slovenly, unorganized ways. they are mrs. walkup and mrs. hugate, the missile advisors. these two teachers shouldered all the problems that arose this past year. in addition, mrs. walkup handled all of the problems with class pictures. the remaining person was the real worker for the missile this year. pam laity drew all of the layouts for the book, besides designing the cover. she also worked with class pictures and the index. her never-failing energy and willingness to work was more than essential to the formation of this book.

my thanks go to all the supporters of the missile, the people who were advertisers and patrons this year. to those who replace the 1972 staff, i wish the best of luck. a little luck always is useful especially when hard work and integrity are added to it. i hope that cooperation and promptness will be found in next years staff, and also that they will be better prepared than the 1972 staff. best wishes for a great 1973 missile, and may the events of 1973 be remembered for years to come.

and when evening
comes, we smile

the placing and the cover and the back and remember what place there may be in society As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons Especially those who are quiet and clearly and listen to others even to the dull and ignorant they too have their story With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams it still is a beautiful world

so much of life ahead . . .
we'll find a place where there's room to grow and yet, we've just begun
